Big crowds enjoy the Bicentennial

Several tens of thousands witnessed Saturday's gigantic U.S. Bicentennial parade through the Quad-Cities and attended church and community observances during the Fourth of July weekend.

Gen. Andrew Jackson Goodpaster, native Granite Cityan who rose to become the top general of U.S. forces in Europe and the top officer of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, rode as guest of honor in the parade and was honored later at a reception.

Accompanying Gen. Goodpaster was Congressman Mike Price of this district, chairman of the U.S. House Armed Services Committee. A picture of them seated in an auto during the parade appears elsewhere in this issue.

In Granite City alone, activities logged 67 complaints about firecrackers from Friday through Monday morning.

An off-duty police officer charged Tom Hughes, 18, of 2717 Roosevelt Ave., at 10 p.m. Friday with disorderly conduct for discharging fireworks within the city limits. Rockets exploded in auto, it was alleged. He was released on $50 bond.

Four youths at the Wilson Park festival at 11:45 p.m. Independence Day were charged with criminal damage to property. They allegedly caused more than $150 worth of damage to a fence owned by Ray Swayze.

Charge were Ed Mitchell, 17, of 315 Aubrey Ave., David Milton, 17, of 2331 Emerit Ave., Randy Smith, 19, of 3 Nightingale Court and Tom Roberts, 17, of 3145 Davis Ave. All four were given notices to appear for hearings.

Mrs. Marian Richeson, 37, of 253 Holiday Mobile Home Park fell on the sidewalk while running errands on the corner of the Granite City Post Office, 2350 Madison Ave., at 10:50 a.m. Saturday as the Quad-City parade was about to begin.

An ambulance was called with the Bicentennial parade caller to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where she was x-rayed, treated for bruises and released.

Three-and-a-half-year-old Sean Bain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan and Linda Bain, 522 S. Mitchell, made an unexpected trip to St. Elizabeth hospital a 11:35 a.m. Saturday but stayed there only a few minutes.

He was sitting in a chair in the 2700 block of Madison avenue watching the parade when, while doing a figure eight two three-wheel mini-cycles of a Shrine unit accidentally struck the chair.

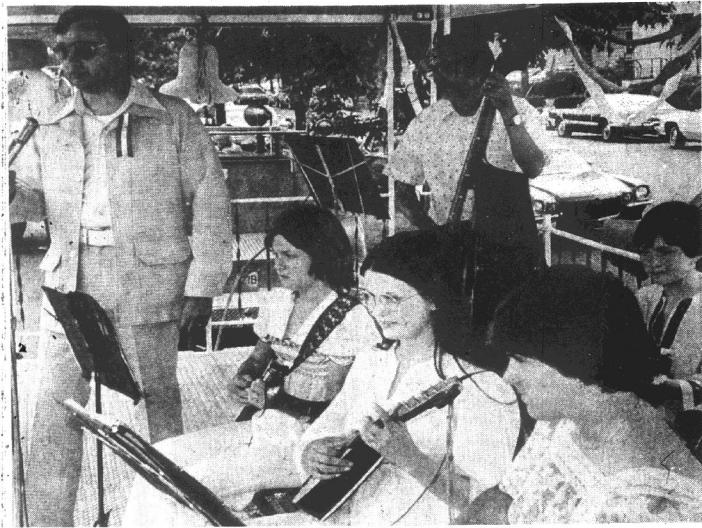

The boy was rushed to the hospital, where he was treated for a bruised leg and released.

Young Sean and his mother were to continue their time to see the rest of the parade.

Vandals set fire to a United States flag flying on the porch of Ronald Wilber, 2617 Iowa St., about 5 p.m. Saturday.

Most Quad-Cityans responded to the Bicentennial celebration with patriotic activities and

On and off the record

These flying objects won't be fireworks

Fireworks filled the sky during the U.S. Bicentennial weekend but flying objects that are unidentified will be in the minds of many Illinoisans and Midwesterners as they scan the horizon late this week.

The eighth annual Midwest Unidentified Flying Objects (UFO) Watch and all-day picnics will be held at Carlyle Lake in Illinois Saturday and Sunday, July 10 and 11, sponsored by the UFO Study Group of Greater St. Louis and open to the public.

Illinois Power Company disclosed Friday it will seek an electric rate increase of about 15 per cent from the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The utility will seek a rate increase of half-million dollars over a large area of the state. It also provides natural gas here and elsewhere.

The electric rate increase request will be filed with the ICC during July. Since the commission has 11 months to consider such proposals, it is likely that there would be no decision in 1978.

Rising supply, equipment and pay costs are cited.

Arrest in stabbing

Della J. Smith, 27, of 1508 Third St., Madison, who was arrested at home and charged with aggravated battery in connection with the June 30 stabbing of Mark V. Lynn of 2008 Harris St., Madison, was taken from Granite City police headquarters to the Edwardsville jail by Madison County Sheriff's deputies Thursday evening. Smith was released on a mittimus.

Mrs. Lynn, who suffered a deep stab wound to the left side of her chest, continued to receive treatment in the intensive care unit at St. Elizabeth Hospital. Her condition has improved.

The stabbing occurred at 9 p.m. June 30 at Triangle Park. Officers were told Mrs. Lynn

Genetic control, preventive medicine emphasis during nation's third century

"When the Tricentennial rolls around, the cottage doctors office will have been replaced by a medical clinic routinely performing organ transplants and interested in long-term maintenance of patients."

"Genetically controlled children, to prevent such diseases as diabetes and cancer will be here to stay, and doctors will be treating new forms of cancer since leukemia and Hodgkin's diseases will have been cured."

This is not something out of a science fiction novel but a well thought-out prediction by two Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville health care experts. SIUE Associate Professor Darryl Enos and Professor Paul Sultan are currently completing a book to be published by Harvard on the future of American health care. A chapter is entitled, "Health care in the Year 2000."

Due to the increasingly high quality of health care, the types of diseases doctors are treating have changed drastically in the past 100 years, they relate.

"In the year 1900, the big killers were influenza, infections, kidney disease, polio and tuberculosis," Professor Enos said. "We died of those types of acute illnesses."

"You got sick and either got better or died. They were caused by a virus, a bacteria and a parasite, infections and communicable."

"In 1976, the big killers are heart disease, cancer and stroke. They are not caused by 'bugs,' except for certain types of cancer that are caused by viruses."

"These diseases are caused by our environment, stress, lifestyle and smoking. Many of the tendencies for these diseases are inherited, a genetic 'carryover,'" he said.

"They have an acute and chronic stage. But if you have a heart attack and survive, you will live as a heart patient for the rest of your life."

"We will have to have fewer and fewer of the old diseases," Enos said. "We will continue to move away from these communicable diseases and will be getting more and more long-term illnesses where the problem is controlling them rather than curing. The age of miracle cures may be over."

"Within 100 years, we will probably solve most forms of cancer," he predicted. "We will learn to control or cure leukemia and Hodgkin's, but we will probably have new forms of cancer."

"We will also minimize the number of people who die immediately from heart attacks. There will still be lots of heart attacks and strokes, so we will have more and more chronic illnesses."

"Health and heart disease are really disorders and not diseases. I think this means that we will have to accept the fact that diseases will not be cured but controlled."

"Doctors will have to be increasingly willing to manage patients and work with them for a long term," he said.

"By the year 2076, nearly all medical care will come out of large physician groups and medical centers. Medical care will be provided by a team consisting of doctors and other health specialists, such as medical social workers, medical psychiatrists and occupational therapists."

Professor Enos said hospitals will provide more outpatient services and will not be used 100 years. "For instance, diabetes and heart attacks are closely related so we will need groups of physicians with different specialists who can work with the same patient. The small doctor's office will disappear."

Other new developments will change the picture of the nation's health. Enos predicted that "due to the women's liberation movement," women will no longer live five years longer than men.

Another change: "By the year 2000, we will have terrific pressures from genetic control in childbirth. The issues, ethics and politics of genetically controlled childbirth will be immense."

Professor Sultan agreed with Enos. "Genetic control is a spooky prospect," Sultan said. "The technology is close to being able to detect any imperfection or imperfection of a fetus."

"Parents already often have the option to abort" in cases where a fetus is suspected of genetic flaws or if the mother has been exposed to a disease that can cause birth defects. He added that it is also possible for doctors to determine the sex of a fetus.

Sultan thinks the regular yearly checkup may be quite different in the future. "We will have much more multiphasic screening, using computers as a diagnostic tool."

"Health profiles will tell us about our risk factors. A medical audit of our health, weight and lifestyle will be fed into a computer and will crank out a life expectancy."

"Hopefully, the average citizen will know more about his or her body and will take more responsibility for it. It is no longer a matter of 'I change or I eat, but weight, exercise and stress,'" he said. "So, people now have some control over what type of health they will have."

"We are doing little preventive health care now. Most of it is done on a crisis basis."

"In the future, we will be more interested in the area of preventive medicine. In the year 2000, computers will tell us what we have to do if we want to live longer — a sort of mechanical prescription."

Sultan thinks that statistics showing that America is becoming more affluent will change attitudes in medicine. "I think that in the future, we will drift to a situation where we are more willing to respect the individual patient's wishes regarding sustaining life by artificial means," he said.

National awards to Madison County

Madison County, Ill., received four achievement awards recently at Salt Lake City, Utah, at the 41st annual conference of the National Association of Counties.

The annual awards are presented to counties for outstanding programs which result in modernized local government, it was announced.

The awards to Madison County were as follows:

1. Adult high school equivalent.

Surveys reveal that 40 percent of the county's 250,000 population lacked high school diplomas or equivalents.

2. Madison County Office of Manpower Development prepared a community outreach General Education Development program.

The GED program has had 76 students graduate since 1975, 65 passing the equivalency examination. With high county unemployment, this program helps utilize the reservoir of untapped human resources, the National Association said.

3. Environment control laboratory.

After several children contracted hepatitis by drinking contaminated water, Madison County set up an environmental control laboratory for the purpose of testing potable and non-potable water.

This laboratory is helping to protect the health of all residents of the county. It was related at the meeting.

3. County aid to road districts and municipalities.

A collision at State and 27th streets at 1:15 p.m. Thursday resulted in injuries to the driver of one car. Mrs. Mary S. Wachter, 254 Edison Ave., and a 10-year-old son, were the second driver, Regis M. Gould, 3305 Bluebird Lane, for alleged failure to yield the right-of-way at a stop sign. Mrs. Wachter was treated at St. Elizabeth Hospital at 4:30 p.m. the same day for right shoulder, neck and back pains. X-rays were taken and she was released.

Since the inception of the program, several projects totaling over $180,000 have been completed.

4. Low-interest loan housing rehabilitation.

A housing rehabilitation loan program establishes a revolving fund of low-interest loan money available to low-income and middle-income families unable to qualify for a housing rehabilitation loan.

This program is the first of its kind in the state.

The National Association of Counties is considered the national spokesman for county government. It represents 93 percent of the U.S. population.

Tryouts for 'Oklahoma'

The East Bank Players have announced that tryouts for their major production of 1976, Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Oklahoma," will be held at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall at 2044 Washington Ave., Granite City, Saturday and Sunday, July 10 and 11, at 3 p.m. and Tuesday, July 13, at 7 p.m.

Lisa Garcia, the show's director, said the tryouts will be open to the public in the community. Those desiring further information may call her at 876-5165. The organization is a non-profit community theater group.

Families ignored on decisions affecting handicapped—Howlett

As governor, Michael J. Howlett would consult with parents or relatives before making major decisions involving mentally handicapped citizens, whether they are children or adults, he said last week.

Secretary of State Howlett, Democratic nominee for governor, asserted that "under my administration, state services for retarded citizens will be accessible, responsive and sensible."

"I am told that when a retarded citizen reaches adult age, the Department of Mental Health and Developmental Disability frequently does not involve parents or relatives in important decisions affecting his or her welfare. The wishes of parents are being ignored on such crucial issues as major surgery and decisions to transfer or discharge."

"Under my administration, parents and relatives would be consulted and involved on all important decisions, even after a retarded citizen reaches adulthood."

Howlett said his priorities as governor would be "human priorities": "Education, health, welfare and public safety come first," he said.

"A special field is education of mentally handicapped—not only children but retarded of all ages. Most mentally handicapped individuals can become productive citizens."

Howlett said prevention of retardation can eliminate some causes of retardation. Adequate nutrition for pregnant women and programs against lead poisoning are among preventatives, he said.

"To maximize money available for better programs to meet human needs, the state government must eliminate waste and duplication, find where taxpayer money can be saved, and reject what is no longer needed," Howlett said.

"We do not want to raise taxes."

"We must live within our means. The first responsibility of the state government will be to put our house in order."

"As auditor of public accounts and secretary of state, I consistently spent less than I was given. As auditor, I appropriated the money for the offices and returned money to the state treasury, where it became available for human needs," he concluded.

million, with about half going for taxes.

For communication fees up to 11 months to make a decision. No immediate impact of the rate request is believed likely.

Under Friday's renewed rates, there would be some increases in telephone rates for the first since 1971, for customers in the Belleville, East St. Louis and Quad-City areas which the company began serving last year.

Basic local service rates would be increased to bring them more into line with those paid by other Illinois Bell customers. Residence rates would go up no more than 50 cents a month, and business rates no more than 50 cents a month.

Private branch exchange trunk rates would increase no more than $1.75, a spokesman said.

Telephone equipment rates for businesses and residences also would be changed to bring them into conformity with other Illinois Bell rates. However, these changes would result in some decreases as well in three areas.

Residence extensions would be increased to $1.15 and business extensions would rise to $1.60 per month. Princess telephone rates would be increased to 50 cents and Trinimiles would decrease to $1.

The existing $4 charge for a standard color phone would be eliminated.

Since the other changes proposed include higher rates for long distance calls within Illinois; installation, Wide Area Telecommunications Service (WATS) within Illinois; Centrex business service; and other business telephone service and equipment, including key telephone systems.

"It's the same old story," Olson explained. "We're in the same boat as everybody else — playing catch-up with inflation.

"Our costs keep going up, up. Our costs have risen for tools, vehicles, cable, wire, paper, gasoline and other essentials."

For example, Olson said, the company's new management wage bill will rise about $1 million a year in August because of cost-of-living and other adjustments called for in 1974 contracts.

He said the Consumer Price Index has risen 7.4 percent since 1972. Illinois Bell rates are up only 27 percent in that period, and service is better than ever," Olson asserted.

"We're doing scores of things better and cheaper to each customer on customers on a pair of wires to burying more and more cable to protect service. Our productivity is twice the national average."

"Our technology continued to improve, increasing efficiency and enabling us to reduce our force by 3,000 without layoffs — the past 18 months."

"We're involved in the most stringent cost-cutting program in our history. Yet, with all this, we can't offset the increased costs of calling to provide reliable telephone service."

Since basic local message units (those units over a number included in a customer's calling plan) would be standardized at six cents apiece. Currently, the cost is 50 cents, six cents, six cents, depending on the number of units used to type of service. (Chicago, suburban area.)

Some charges for installing or moving a phone for business and residence customers would increase, depending on the type and amount of work to be done.

A few residence customers with two phones in the same apartment with wiring already in place would pay $9 more for the work. (Statewide.)

Increased charges for long distance calls within Illinois would result in revenue increases of about 12 percent; the average residence user would pay about 25 cents more for toll calls within Illinois, but it depends on the amount of long distance calling. (Statewide effect.)

Residence extensions would cost 20 cents more a month from the cost of 11 cents. Touch-Tone service rates would go from $1.50 to $1.75. (Statewide, except Southwest District—Granite City, Madison, Venice, Pontoon Beach, Mitchell, Belleville and East St. Louis.)

Charges would increase for residence customers with unlimited Call-Pak plans. An additional charge would be added to boost the fortunes of gubernatorial candidate Michael Howlett.

That's the reason why Chicago Mayor Richard Daley wants Stevenson or the national ticket.

NEWS, ANALYSIS

Senator good VP prospect

By AL MANNING

would help deliver a key state to Carter's side in November.

What does Stevenson think of all of this?

The senator remains a critic of the presidential primaries, but he doesn't think it focuses on the substance of the nation's politics. He says the primaries have not shown whether Carter is the best qualified candidate.

The prospects of the Illinois senator being chosen as the vice presidential nominee would increase with each primary won by Jimmy Carter.

Should Carter be nominated, as seems likely now, Stevenson would make an active running-mate for several reasons.

His name is well-known and respected around the nation because of his father's two presidential campaigns and his service as a delegate to the Democratic National Convention.

His primary interest is in foreign affairs, which is Carter's weakest area.

The senator won by 76,612 votes in 1974, and Howlett undoubtedly would benefit by having Stevenson at the top of the ticket.

His opinion of the vice presidency?

"I'm not seeking any office," the senator said. "I'm not saying I wouldn't accept it, but it's difficult to see the circumstances in which it would be attractive."

Should Carter get Stevenson

the spot on the ticket, it wouldn't hurt the Democratic candidates for state office.

Republicans think James

Thompson has a good chance of becoming the next governor, but they are not over-confident because of Stevenson's possible candidacy.

Recycling program here will stress newspaper collection

By VALERIE EVENDEN
Recycling Writer

Recycling slowly but surely beginning to introduce itself into the daily routine of many Quad-City residents.

But more families need to think recycling in their everyday lives if true make the program successful, according to David Lehn, director of the Community Recycling Program here.

Co-sponsored by Coordinated Youth Services, the United Way agency, and the Madison County Office of Manpower Development, the program maintains a recycling collection center at Niedringhaus Avenue and Adams Street.

A new program designed to decrease the amount of newspaper waste is ready to start as a pilot project, Lehn said. Assistance is needed, however, from the business or community sectors of the community, he said.

To accomplish the program's objectives, Lehn is seeking individuals and firms with a truck available and willing to volunteer two days per year.

"These volunteers will supply the transportation essential for picking up newspaper collections and taking them from area pickup points to the Community Recycling Center," Lehn said. Enough trucks are needed before the program can get underway, he added.

Any person with a truck willing to help get the program started may call Lehn at 876-2328.

Weekly pickups are planned with different volunteer drivers and vehicles so that the time provided by each is minimal. Workers will be provided to load and unload the trucks.

The director also urged the public to cooperate in other matters concerning recycling by "helping to spread the word of its benefits to all. Joint effort will prevent natural resources from ending the life of our landfills," he said.

The CYS recycling program collected and sold nearly 50 tons of glass, cans and newspaper to area secondary materials dealers in the first three months of 1976.

This is still a fraction of what could be recycled if citizens would recycle its importance," Lehn said.

"It is difficult to break old habits, such as waste," he continued. "It takes concerted effort on the part of the recycler, but the rewards far outweigh the minimum inconvenience.

"By using and reusing our natural resources we can conserve energy and our resources, as well as generate revenue for youth services.

"What we really need is to have persons already in the recycling habit to acquaint their friends and families of conservation. Once you start, it's hard to stop, because you realize just how wasteful you were before.

Lehn said it is "no great chore to start recycling. Put aside two or three grocery sacks as recycling bags.

"After reading a newspaper, place it in the recycling bag, not the garbage sack. The same thing goes for empty glass containers and tin cans.

"Why throw away valuable and natural resources?

"Into the recycling bag and not the garbage is the key."

he added.

The Manpower Development office in Edwardsburg, directed by Dan Churovich, was instrumental in keeping the recycling program going here.

"It is time for our citizens to show them that their efforts have not been lost."

PATRIOTIC PAINTINGS trimmed in red on a white wall create a Bicentennial theme at the newly-decorated office of Granite City Township Assessor Von Dee Cruse. Included in the paintings are portraits of Presidents Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and George Washington.

Non-teaching school personnel who meet with the committee regularly are Mrs. Martha Rochester, secretary to Superintendent B. J. Davis, and Owen Humphrey, curriculum coordinator.

Consideration is currently being given by the committee to help insure adequate representation of the schools and community.

From August through June, open meeting meetings are held on each third Wednesday at the Board of Education offices, 20th and Adams streets, at 5:30 p.m.

The purchase cost will be reimbursed from state funds which finance the adult education-vocational school center.

Requisitions totaling $4,558 were approved for Venice-Lincoln. The action was taken last week due to the fiscal year ending July 1.

A textbook requisition of $9,400 was approved for Venice public schools.

State police to offer training

The Illinois State Police will begin a basic training program for new police officers from community departments this fall.

The program, approved by the Illinois Local Governmental Law Enforcement Officer's Training Board, will provide a short basic course of instruction.

Some of the subjects to be taught are: arrest, search and seizure, civil rights, human relations, and state laws.

In addition, the academy will present a separate 36-hour police weapons instructor course centering on the same pistol. Departments using this type of firearm will be invited to send their weapons training officers for advanced training.

According to State Police Superintendent Dwight E. Pitman, the certification of these courses by the Training Board is a step toward a state police graduate several years ago to provide local departments with some of the professional training given to state troopers.

"The board's approval of these two courses as well as the way toward providing better service and assistance to local agencies," said Pitman. "I am convinced that our involvement in this training program will benefit the new police officers as well as the departments they serve."

Captain William J. Ryan, director of training at the State Police Academy, located in Springfield, said regarding the state police training role. "We have held schools for local departments before, but never on the scale that we're looking forward to now."

Pilot textbook loan program in Venice, St. Mark schools

Kindergarten, first and second grade students in eight Illinois schools—including two public schools—will be the first to benefit from the state's new secular textbook loan program passed by the legislature in 1973, according to State Superintendent Joseph M. Cronin.

Cronin said Thursday that the pilot program will provide textbooks to primary grade children in following schools or school districts: Crystal Lake District 47, Crystal Lake; Venice Unit District 3, Venice; Immanuel Lutheran School, Crystal Lake; St. Mark Elementary School, Crystal Lake; St. Mark Elementary School, Venice; St. Stanislaus B. and M. School, Posen; St. Germaine Elementary School, Oak Lawn; and Chicago Southwest Christian School, Evergreen Park.

Dr. Cronin said that the children in these particular schools were chosen because they represent the various geographic areas of Illinois as well as both public and non-public education.

Also taken into account were the size and racial mix, according to Dr. Cronin, state superintendent of education.

He said the secular textbooks needed by students attending these schools have been ordered by the state education office and will be delivered for the fall school term.

In this pilot project, the state will spend the $10,000 initial appropriation approved for the current fiscal year," Cronin said.

Last year, the state legislature appropriated $19 million for the statewide textbook program; however, this figure was later increased by Gov. Daniel Walker, who questioned both the constitutionality of the new law and the state's ability to pay for such a program.

He left the $10,000, however, to "enable a test case to proceed with no jeopardizing the state's fiscal position."

No suits have been filed to date.

The textbook bill, Public Act

79-961 sponsored by Rep. Jane Barnes of Oak Lawn, says:

"The Illinois Office of Education shall provide the following free of charge to any student in this state who is enrolled in grades kindergarten through 12 at a public school or at a school other than a public school which is in compliance with the requirements of the laws of this State and Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 the loan of secular textbooks listed for use by the Office of Education."

"The foregoing service shall be provided directly to the students at their request or at the request of their parents or guardians."

The Office of Education shall adopt appropriate regulations to administer this section and to facilitate the equitable participation of all students eligible for benefits hereunder."

Illinois was the 27th state to adopt a free textbook program.

Textbooks presently are paid for in three ways: (1) rental program; (2) students purchasing the books or (3) school districts levying a special tax for the books.

Most public schools rent textbooks to students, whereas non-public schools require students to buy their books. Chicago is the only school district in the state which by law can levy a tax for textbooks without a special referendum.

Public school districts are permitted about 10 percent of their revenues to purchase instructional materials. The state school superintendent estimated the cost of the program when fully implemented at nearly $27 million per year for the initial four to five years.

"This figure," he said, "is based on an average textbook cost of $10 per book, 10,000 2,269,832 public school and 351,923 non-public school students."

The $27 million estimate was originally included in the State Board of Education's 1973 budget request, but was cut in May to $7 million after the governor and the legislature asked the state board to make substantial budget reductions.

The reduced figure still allows the state education office to phase in the program, extending free textbooks to students enrolled in the primary grades in all public, parochial, private and independent schools upon request of students, their parents or guardians.

Rules and regulations to govern the administration and operation of the secular textbook loan program were drafted by the state education agency, with the assistance of an advisory committee composed of public and nonpublic school educators.

The rules and regulations have been sent to each public school superintendent and nonpublic school administrator, as well as to regional school superintendents for their comments and recommendations.

After responses are received, the state board will support the program and the cost of spending public money to build a costly freeway system."

Groups listed as participating in the campaign to ban the highway include the Alton Area Taxpayers League, Alton Area Landmarks Association, Illinois State Council of Senior Citizens, Alton Springfield and Citizens Court House Committee of Belleville.

Delegates at the final luncheon last week heard Ralph Nader speak on the subject of "effective citizenship."

How to read your utility meters

Your meter will have four or five dials. This example shows a five-dial electric meter. Read the dials from left to right. When the arrow is between two numbers, read the lower of the two.

On the first dial above, the arrow is between six and seven. The reading is 6.

Now move to the next dial to the right. (The numbers on this dial run counter-clockwise; that's the way the meter is read.) The arrow here is between 3 and 4. The reading is 3.

On the third dial above, the arrow is between 5 and 6. The reading is 5.

The fourth dial also runs counter-clockwise. Here the arrow is past 9 and almost to 0. The reading is 9.

Your meter reading from left to right on the five dials is 63593. Make a note of the reading. When you read your meter again in, say, a month, it may read 64313, or 720 numbers more. That means you've used 720 kilowatt hours of electricity since you first read the meter.

Your gas meter reads the same but has only four dials and measures therms of gas. If your first reading is 6359 and your next reading is 6431, you've used 72 therms of gas since your first reading.

Reading your own meter from time to time enables you to check how much energy you're using and helps your family realize how wasteful habits can consume energy needlessly.

Another delay in Ricco's II appeal ruling

Formal action is expected tomorrow by the Illinois Board of Appeals in Chicago on the appeal to an order by Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler revoking the liquor license of Ricco's II Lounge, in the rear half of the former Bierman's Furniture building.

The commission has delayed acting on the request for several months, and will act at a meeting eight days ago.

A spokesman for the commission said this morning that the chairman is preparing a recommendation which should be signed by him tomorrow.

The other members of the commission will then be contacted to determine the concurrence in the recommendation.

Commissioners will then consider options of upholding Schuler's revocation order, overturning the order, or modifying it to a license suspension for a given period.

The commission's recommendation is based upon a review of the record of a license hearing in Granite City in December, following a fatal shooting and a stabbing on the parking lot near the lounge Dec. 8.

Schedule conflict plagues top drivers of midget cars

Five nationally-ranked U.S. Auto Club (USAC) midget race car drivers are occupying the top through sixth places in the St. Louis Auto Racing Association's point standings heading into the 7:30 p.m. Saturday, July 16, meeting at Tri-City Park at Tri-City Park.

They are Dan Frye Jr., Duke DeRosa, Kenny Schrader, Gene Gemenet and Arnold Knepper. Jon Backlund, a Kansas City, Mo., native, is the point leader.

Due to a scheduling conflict, the national drivers may lose valuable points while sitting in the pits unable to compete for fear of possibly losing their competition with one or both associations.

USAC and the St. Louis club both have rules which state that a member competing in any event in the club in which he holds a license also has a racing program scheduled for that date — will automatically lose his driving privilege.

The USAC midget division is scheduled to compete Saturday at Springfield.

Knepper, of Belleville, is a four-time St. Louis association champion and also the defending point titlist. Frye of St. Louis and DeRosa of Springfield are former St. Louis champions.

At least five sets of father-and-son drivers are expected to compete in two heat races and 20-lap feature events.

The sons (with the father's name first) are Gene and Mike Weyant of Springfield, Bud and Gary Hoppe of St. Louis, Dan and Dennis Frye of St. Louis, and Larry and Terry Wente of Pontoon Beach and Bob Wente, all of St. Louis.

Sports Club softball team wins 15-team holiday tourney

Sports Club swept through the week-long men's holiday softball tournament hosted by the Granite City Park District.

Bicentennial race winner is from Mark Twain home town

Terry Gallagher of Hannibal, Mo., left his home track Saturday to invade the regular ranks of late model stock car competition at Tri-City Speedway, claiming the feature race. The half-mile dirt track at Mike Wallace captured the sportsman division main event.

Gallagher, 28, normally competes in his home town, plus across the river at Quincy, and in Iowa and at Jefferson City, Mo.

Former Tri-City champion Len Gittermeier of St. Charles, Mo., had three feature race victories, having won a heat race and then a trophy dash before starting the feature race alongside Gallagher in the front row of the field.

Jerry Sifford and Mike Hammerle were also heat race victors and Alan Kiral Jr. won a second trophy dash.

Gallagher and Gittermeier ran away from the pack in the early going of the race, and extended their margin by nearly a quarter of a lap before taking the lead.

Bill Myers finished third, Russ Wallace fourth and Hammerle fifth.

Mo. Wallace opened the sportsman competition with a heat race win and then led John Wolfmeier and Tim Allen across the finish line in the feature. Kyle Krohn also won a preliminary race.

Entry forms ready for county fair auto show

The annual Madison County Fair is set to begin Sunday, July 25, at Lindalee Park in Madison. The fair features a flag-raising ceremony and an antique automobile show highlighting the start of the six-day event. The fair originated in 1896.

Supervisor Jay Boulanger notes that first, second and third-place awards will be presented to cars judged in nine categories—antique models to 1915, vintage models from 1916 to 1930, classic models from 1931 to 1942, special interest autos of 1925-32, classic cars 1933-42, special interest cars of 1934-54, commercial class to 1950 and special interest autos 1955-66.

Boulanger said registration and entry forms for entering an automobile are now being accepted, and that forms may be obtained by writing to: Madison County Fair, P.O. Box 187, Highland, Ill., 62249.

Judging will be based on authenticity of body paint, sheet metal, hardware, lamps, trim, interiors, mats, coach work, wheels, running gear, chassis, engine and under-the-hood cleanliness.

In the case of a restored car, the quality and authenticity of the completed restoration is the basis, with the car being closely approaching factory-fresh condition receiving the most points.

Entry fees have been set at $3 for one car and $2 for each additional auto entered by one person.

A. O. Smith 2nd shift to return today

A second shift of production workers will return to work at 3:30 p.m. today at the A. O. Smith Corp. automotive frame plant, which the company doubles its production of frames for 1977 model, full-sized General Motors cars.

One of the company's two production lines opened June 1 with one shift, and the calling of the second shift today corresponded with the target date for two shifts of production.

This was a major changeover from 1976 frames and, of course, we have experienced some bugs in the production, but we feel we now can start the second shift," a company spokesman said. He added the target date of Aug. 9 for opening the second production line remains unchanged and the small number of employees still on layoff should be back to work sometime that week.

Both production lines were closed by May 28 for the model changeover and about 700 employees were laid off or took vacation time.

Truly happy U. S. 200th birthday here and elsewhere

Colorful floats, pretty girls, spirited marching units, marching bands — the big U. S. Bicentennial parade in the Quad-Cities lived up to all expectations.

Threatening weather failed to interrupt the proceedings, and it was a delightfully cool day for the parade participants as well as the near-record throngs of spectators attracted along Madison Avenue and Broadway.

Bicentennial celebrations in Wilson Park, on the St. Mary's School property in Madison, at Lee Park in Venice and at numerous Quad-City area churches also drew large, interested and well-behaved gatherings.

Here, as in nearly every other community in the United States, the emphasis was on joy and fellowship, with recognition of the achievements of past generations — and immense pride in what this nation has become and can become.

It was a truly happy American birthday — a historic and enjoyable observance that all who witnessed will remember throughout their lives.

Educational TV among 1976 legislative accomplishments

There were omissions, some sad and some happy, in the Illinois state legislative session that came to an end July 2, two days after the scheduled 1976 session. But the deliberations were productive in many instances, including enactment of a major civic center in Madison County and establishment of an educational television station at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Local legislators won many accolades for their tireless, effective efforts on many issues — Senator Sam Vadalabene and Representatives Sam Wolf, Everett Steele and Joe Lucco.

With at least two additional General Assembly meetings likely this year, Rep. Wolf will have an opportunity for continued service before his brief legislative tenure ends. His successor will have a mighty tough act to follow.

Reactions are mixed to some of the supposed Assembly accomplishments, including minimum pay extension, a new school aid formula, workmen's compensation revisions and new limitations on public amends.

medical malpractice litigation. Provisions both helpful and harmful were included, observers from diverse vantage points concluded.

Financial squeeze stemming from past state spending trends caused legislators to withhold some proposed new programs and it also is likely to prompt outgoing Governor Daniel Walker to wield an active veto and amendatory veto pen.

Ethical considerations continued to plague Assembly members, who enacted some reforms but were reluctant to adopt other changes despite widespread public clamor for them. Substantially expanded disclosure requirements and further procedural revisions appear likely to remain key issues. And voters this fall may have an opportunity to consider new restrictions on public officials in the form of constitutional amendments.

Illinois legislators appropriately avoided adoption of legalized policy gambling. Looming large on their future agenda is the possible resumption of capital punishment, newly authorized Friday by the U. S. Supreme Court under specified conditions.

UN official wrong in condemning thwarting of hijacking

While the Israeli raid to free hostages July 3 was daring in nature and technically overran the Ugandan dictatorship's territorial sovereignty, it seems incredible that the top United Nations officials promptly assailed the hostage's heroic friends but had no criticism for the airplane hijackers and their adherents.

Terrorists who had created a week-long ordeal for an unsuspecting plane load of innocent airline passengers were aided by Ugandan military units, witnesses related. And there is now much talk of reprisals against Israel and its supposed helpers, Kenya and France — as if the rescue mission rather than the hijacking created the threat to life and liberty.

If the United Nations or specific member nations pursue such a twisted interpretation of what is just and fair, they will be revealing themselves as supporters for terror and murder as justified "diplomatic" tactics for attainment of various nations' goals.

Perhaps UN Secretary General Kurt Waldheim also thinks Kenya and Israel were wrong in their newly-disclosed January 1976 capture of five individuals armed with a ground-to-air missile which the quintet was preparing to use to shoot down a commercial airliner filled with unsuspecting tourists and other travelers.

Continuous mill

(54th of a Bicentennial year Press-Record series)

Granite City Steel in the mid-1930s successfully fought for survival by adapting to sweeping technological changes in steelmaking.

In July 1935, the stockholders approved issuance of 137,065 additional shares of common stock to a private investment fund. The extra stock was found ready purchasers at $27 a share.

A 90 inch wide continuous hot strip mill was installed in 1937.

By March, the company was operating at 100 percent capacity, which — without benefits of catchers, doublers or rollers — turned out continuous lengths of sheet steel at incredible speed.

Many of the hand mills were relegated to the scrap heap, along with the almost 1,000 workers who operated them.

In order to hold the capital expenditure to a minimum, the company retained its old 100-inch, two-high slabbing mill and 100-inch three-high coil mill in place of a new primary mill and the continuous roughing stands of the continuous hot strip process.

Repetition of the old mills reduced the capital costs, but it also required a much smaller capacity of the mill and made operating costs higher than they otherwise would have been.

Meanwhile, the steel industry had developed an entirely new rolling process known as the cold rolling process-23 in order to produce an improved steel sheet.

Cold reduction is exactly what the name implies — the steel which comes from the hot strip mill is rolled in the unheated state.

In the process, the leading end of the coil, which comes from the hot strip mill, is inserted in the first stand of the cold reduction mill, passed through the four remaining stands, and wound around the recoiler.

Once the mill is started, tension is applied to the hot strip between the mill stands as well as between the last stand and the recoiler. Enormous pressure of one million pounds reduces the thickness of the steel strip; the gauge is controlled by electrical instruments; it was explained at the time.

The goal: a steel sheet with the metallurgical qualities necessary to make it into a deep impression and not break, tear or show surface defects. The hot rolled steel produced on the hand mill could not stand such pressure.

For some time, Granite City

Steel Company used the old hand operated Mills for making lighter-gauge sheets weighing about 15 pounds each.

This was an extremely slow process, requiring as many as 19 operations, most of which were manual.

After the modernization program also included conversion to the continuous cold reduction method of reducing the thickness of coiled steel.

Granite City Steel purchased a new 48-inch, four-high reversing cold strip mill with four rolls in each stand, and two 7,500-kw Allis Chalmers turbo-generators.

The money for this program was obtained by issuing 127,496 shares of common stock at $20 per share, or $2,549,920 less underwriting commissions and other expenses, which was to be paid back by $2,000,000 cash from the company treasury.

'Save a life' workshop

Members of the Madison City Council were issued a special invitation to attend a one-week workshop to attend a "save a life" workshop being sponsored by the Madison Emergency Service and Disaster Agency, formerly known as Madison City Defense.

"The workshops are being scheduled from noon to 4 p.m. Saturday, July 10, and Sunday, July 11, both in the Madison Recreation Center. The two-day items will be: first aid, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and the Heimlich maneuver," Director Casimir Krakowicki said.

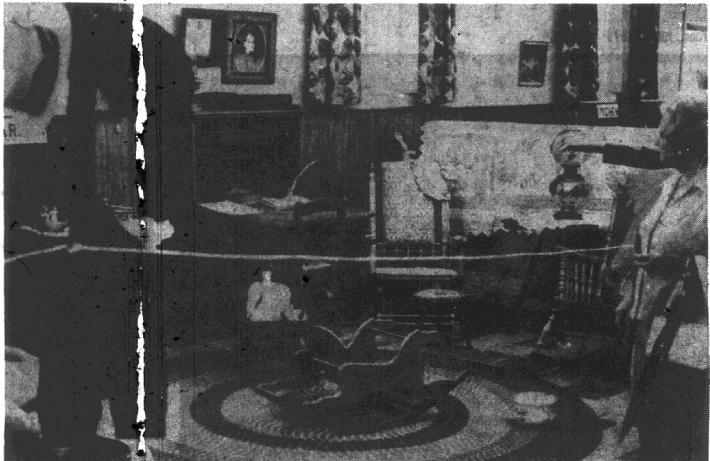

Cold reduction is exactly what the name implies — the steel which comes from the hot strip mill is rolled in the unheated state.

In the process, the leading end of the coil, which comes

"A person choking on food will die in four minutes and with a little help from us we will show persons how to save the individual," Krakowicki said. It involves a type of stomach "bear hug" to dislodge food in the throat.

The workshops are free and open to the public; however, each workshop is limited to 25 persons.

Those completing the workshop will be certified by the Illinois Heart Association.

VENICE OBSERVANCE of the U. S. Bicentennial on July 3. Lee Park was the scene of the festival, which followed the Quad-City parade.

Entertainment was featured, and booths were operated by many Venice organizations during the afternoon and evening.
